Roof Natural slate Walls Roughcast Windows Square-headed timber framed 6/6 sliding sash; 2/2 sliding sash to principal elevation RWG Cast-iron ogee-profile gutters (half-round to return) and round downpipes.
Landscape Context (setting)	Located east of Sion Mills village on east banks of Mourne River.
Site Appraisal	A detached three-bay two-storey house, built c.1870, located to the east side of Lisky Road. This substantial house displays good style and proportions and retains many of its original features including a richly detailed Victorian interior. The relatively plain exterior appearance of the house is enriched by corbelled eaves and sandstone dressings. The building, which incorporates an earlier rear return of equal importance, remains an important architectural feature of the local area. The site is given further interest by the extensive range of outbuildings to the south-east of the house. The outbuildings remain intact and well maintained and the presence of a flax drying green and flax mill to the east supplement the significance of this site in the context of rural industry in the local area.
Sensitivity
Associations	The house was built c.1870 on the site of an earlier dwelling. The return appears in style and proportion to be earlier than the main house, but cannot be earlier than 1855 as it does not appear on the second edition OS map. A group of buildings is shown on the first edition OS map of 1832-3, to the north west of the current buildings. On the second edition of 1855 the group is captioned 'Camus'. By the third edition OS map of 1905, the current house is shown, captioned 'Camus House'. To the east are a 'Flax mill', 'Mill pond' and 'Mill race'. The front of the main house is partly on the site of the older buildings but no other buildings overlap with the 1855 group. The Camus estate is recorded in The Landed Gentry, Burke as being part of the estate of the Smyly family from Castlederg, with reference to John Smyly of Camus. The owner claims that the Smyly family were in ownership of the estate from 17th century to 20th century. The property is recorded in the Townland Valuation as a 'dwelling, offices and cellar', Robert Grier is the occupier and the building valuation is £6.5s. Griffiths Valuation of 1858 records a 'house, offices and land', which is occupied by Robert Grier and freehold (the original lessor being the Lord Bishop of Derry). The building valuation is £6, and is revised at an unknown date to £7. A marginal note reads 'R. Grier is in the lunatic asylum but is yet in possession'. A marginal note of 1873 in Annual Revision reads 'Unfinished house 19x11½x2½, 18x7?x2. Mr Greer lives at present in the return. See in 1874'. A further note reads 'Held under a Bishops lease forever'. Also added to the fieldbook at this time are a Flax Mill and 'two scutchers houses'. The Valuation is originally £7 and revised to £20 in 1873 and to £60 in 1876, supporting the late Victorian character of the house. The Flax Mill is valued at £15. In 1889 the mill is valued at £10 as only 2 stocks worked, the main house valuation increases to £66 in 1896 due to 'appeal', and the 'flax mill [is] converted into threshing mill and valued with offices'. It is deleted from the fieldbook in 1896. Rowan refers to this house as late Georgian, but

	primary evidence and internal inspection refute this (p.409). Internal plasterwork and joinery are distinctly late Victorian in character.
Recommendations	The site is given further interest by the presence of a flax drying green and flax mill to the east which supplement the significance of this site in the context of rural industry in the local area and could be utilised for tourism potential, particularly in the context of Sion Mills.
